

Tips for making a great cuppa!

Use one teaspoon per cup—approximately 2 to 3 grams. The teaspoon will be heaped most of the bulkier teas and a flat one with the denser teas. It will also vary depending on the size of your cup or mug and your personal taste. Experiment a little!

For Black or Pu-erh Tea use boiling or near boiling water. Preferably use fresh filtered water and don't reboil the same water. Brew 2 - 3 minutes if drunk black and up to 5 minutes if you have milk.

Green Tea is more delicate and needs slightly cooler "off the boil" water or it will become bitter. Brew Green Tea for 1 - 3 minutes only.

White Tea, requires even cooler water than green tea but you can brew for a longer time.

Rooibos, Herbal and Fruit teas like boiling water. Brew for a about 3 to 5 minutes to personal taste.

To retain the best flavour, store your tea in a cool place away from light and use within a couple of months of opening
